

Leipziger Gose > Bayerischer Bahnhof > Leipzig Germany

Leipziger Gose actually originated in the smallish town of Goslar and was already mentioned around 1000 AD under Emperor Otto III.

Appearance: Very bright gold, fairly clear, spritzy.

Aroma: A hint of apple-skin, champagne-like with leafy undertones.

Flavor: Quite complex with notes of plums, herbs, lemon, orange, and coriander on the palate and a subtly refreshing sharpness provided by the addition of salt.

Finish: Dry with the lactic acid bacteria providing refreshing undertones. Earthly, dry, malt and a hint of fruitcake are apparent.
